Teacher Preparation

“The JRTEP program is preparing me for SUNY New Paltz because nothing is being held back. I am receiving a big work load, which includes 20 hours observing in area school classrooms, but I am still enjoying my time in the program. After completing JRTEP I will be ready for any challenge New Paltz has to offer.”

Eric Marquez

Why Teacher Preparation?

There continues to be a shortage of teachers, both in New York State and nationally. If you want to be a teacher and get an excellent, affordable start, SUNY Orange’s Jointly Registered Teacher Education Program (JRTEP) will prepare you with a liberal arts foundation, some specific education courses, and between 10 and 80 hours of observation in local field sites.

Career opportunities include:
- Public school classroom teacher (pre-K through grade 12)
- Special education teacher
- Guidance counselor

Why Teacher Preparation at SUNY Orange?

That’s easy! The Education department faculty is highly qualified and cares about you as a teacher-in-training. Our curriculum blends excellent instruction with “hands-on” practical experience through field work in public schools and early learning centers. Our graduates are eagerly hired by local agencies. Our Jointly Registered Teacher Education Program (JRTEP) transfer students typically achieve a 100% pass rate on the New York State Liberal Arts and Sciences Test for Certification exams. The competitively low tuition at SUNY Orange and the high level of preparation combine to truly give you the best for less. Start your teaching career here: change the world one child at a time.

Top 5 Reasons You Should Study Teacher Preparation at SUNY Orange

- Education department faculty experience totals more than 65 years. We know and have lived what we’re teaching.
- Meaningful, appropriate and quality instruction is paired with up to 235 hours of practical “hands-on” field work.
- Course assessments are not just exams. You’ll also design items relevant to teaching (lesson plans and games).
- On-campus department support and resources, (900-plus volumes in the Education Department Curriculum Resource Area) add to your professional growth.
- Employment and/or transfer success is high. Local agencies want our graduates.

At SUNY Orange, we are passionate about teaching and we are committed to providing a friendly and supportive environment for you. If you are equally passionate about your future, you may want to investigate all that SUNY Orange has to offer.

“If you have the dream, we have the way.”
SUNY Orange offers a selection of programs for students pursuing varied careers in education. Emphasis is placed on solid foundational knowledge in liberal arts as well as educational concept, theory and application. In several courses, local field experiences enhance college classroom learning.

The programs in the Education Department are:

- Early Childhood Development and Care—A.A.S. Degree
- Early Childhood Development and Care—Certificate
- Jointly Registered Teacher Education Program—A.A. and A.S. degrees; (Transfer Program with SUNY New Paltz)
- Teaching Assistant Certificate
- Liberal Arts and Sciences—Foundations of Education—A.A. and A.S. degrees; (Transfer opportunities to schools other than SUNY New Paltz)

If you wish to teach in preschools or child care centers, or own a business in early childhood education, and NOT transfer to a four-year school, review the A.A.S. degree and/or the certificate program in Early Childhood Development and Care.

If you want to pursue a career teaching in a public school, and plan to transfer to SUNY New Paltz, refer to the JRTEP options, which lead to a seamless, priority transfer as a junior to New Paltz when all applicable requirements are successfully met at SUNY Orange.

If you choose a career in public school teaching and plan to transfer to a four-year school other than SUNY New Paltz, consult the College’s general Liberal Arts and Sciences degrees in which you can specify your academic interest as Foundations of Education. For the three or four electives in those course sequences, you can choose some of the education courses.

If you are interested in a teaching assistant position in a public or non-public setting, you may consider the Teaching Assistant certificate.

Education Certificate and Liberal Arts Options

Early Childhood Development and Care Certificate

Current research shows that development in the early years is extremely vital. Becoming a professional who works in an early childhood setting, you’ll have opportunities to guide young learners using positive, appropriate methods. In addition to meaningful courses on campus, you will be involved with up to 60 hours of “hands-on” day-to-day activities in diverse, early-learning field environments. Career opportunities include:

- Entry-level or aide positions in:
  - Child care centers
  - Preschools
  - Nursery schools

All of the Early Childhood Development and Care Certificate courses can be applied to the Early Childhood Development and Care A.A.S. degree.

Teaching Assistant Certificate

After completing this program, you’ll be prepared to provide educational and behavioral assistance in New York State classrooms ranging from preschool through high school. College courses may include up to 50 hours of observation/participation in local schools, as well as basic SUNY general education topics. The program meets the requirements for permanent New York State Education Department Teaching Assistant Certification. Additionally, all courses apply to an associate’s degree and the Jointly Registered Teacher Education Program. Career opportunities include entry-level teaching assistant or paraprofessional openings in:

- Birth to second grade
- First to sixth grade
- Seventh to 12th grade

Liberal Arts (Foundations of Education) Degree Program

The Associate in Arts and the Associate in Science degrees prepare students for transfer to obtain a bachelor’s degree at a four-year college or university. Students interested in obtaining a New York State Teaching Certificate can begin at SUNY Orange by entering an A.A. or A.S. Liberal Arts program and indicating Foundations of Education as their area of academic interest. (Students planning to transfer to SUNY New Paltz should review both this generic A.A./A.S. degree, AND the Jointly Registered Teacher Education Program. The JRTEP is a specific, highly competitive partnership with New Paltz, requiring a high grade point average.)

This program allows students to select courses related to their education career.
